

International Nursing Day

12th May 2021

Identity Workshop
10.00am – 12.00pm
on Teams

Who we are and what we do

We are working a groundbreaking project, to celebrate the staff and students who work in Marriss House. The award-winning writer and artist, Rob Young, will work with us to create a series of artworks that will be peppered throughout the building, to make people feel welcome. They will encourage curiosity, create a positive learning environment and crucially, honour the nursing profession by redefining its identity. They will look similar to the image below.

In this document, Rob has posed a series of questions about the nursing identity. The replies you give will be the bedrock of the project, so please take a minute to fill in the form, then email it to: PBCCL@chester.ac.uk

As Health Professionals, we should be able to define our identity, so that we can communicate it to the patients.

The aim of these fun, but profound questions is to help us define “who we are and what we do” in a way that is warm, welcoming and accessible to all. No names will be used in the finished artwork so be as honest, and informal, as you like.

Question 1

How would you describe your job to an 8-year-old child

2

The building where you study? In a word?

Is it your... Home? Temple? Family? Me Time?

3

What do your friends and family think you do all day

4*Describe a modest moment of pride, relating to your work*5*Sum up your job in three words.*6*What is 'Health'?*7*What is 'Health Care'?

8*What is the most common misconception about your role?*9*Which of these words describes what you do?

Specialist? Technician? Carer? How would you describe your role?

10*If you were re-branding your role, how would you define your identity?

11*What is the 'best bit' about being a nurse?*12*Is there anything else that you'd like to say?